Overview:

The Swachhata Abhiyan, organized by DKMMHMC - Homoeopathic Medical College, was a remarkable initiative aimed at promoting cleanliness and hygiene in a public space. This event held particular significance as it was conducted on October 1st to commemorate Gandhi Jayanti, a day that celebrates the teachings and principles of Mahatma Gandhi, including his emphasis on cleanliness and sanitation.

Participants:

- Students: Approximately 70 to 80 students actively participated in the cleanliness drive.
- Teachers: The college's dedicated teaching staff provided valuable guidance and support throughout the event.
- Management: The college management played a crucial role in supporting and facilitating the drive.

Event Highlights:

- Leadership: Principal Dr. Shalini Ankushe and Dr. Sneha Ghanachari provided strong leadership and guidance for the event, ensuring its smooth execution.
- Educational Component: Dr. Sandeep Shelke and Dr. Valanand Balkhande enlightened the participants about the importance of cleanliness, emphasizing its role in public health and sanitation.
- Empowering Girls: Dr. Preeti Sarnikar represented the female students and conveyed the significance of the Swachhata Abhiyan to them, encouraging their active participation.
- Duration: The drive lasted for approximately one hour, during which participants energetically cleaned the designated area.
- Management Support: The college management wholeheartedly supported the initiative, recognizing its value for community welfare and public health.
- Success: The Swachhata Abhiyan was a resounding success, significantly improving the cleanliness of the Bibi ka Maqbara tourist place. The enthusiasm and dedication of the participants were evident, reflecting their commitment to creating a cleaner and healthier community.

Commemorating Gandhi Jayanti:

This initiative was not only about promoting cleanliness but also about paying tribute to Mahatma Gandhi, who advocated for cleanliness as an integral aspect of a healthy and socially responsible society. The event captured the spirit of Gandhiji's teachings and principles.

Conclusion

The Swachhata Abhiyan organized by DKMMHMC - Homoeopathic Medical College exemplifies a strong sense of social responsibility and community engagement. Such efforts have a profound impact on public health and contribute significantly to the betterment of society.

We kindly request the Ministry of Health to acknowledge and appreciate these endeavors in promoting cleanliness and hygiene, which are fundamental to public health and community well-being.
