(57) Abstract :

Smart Baby Monitor for Contactless Vital Sensing with Real-Time AI Analysis and Alerts. This invention describes a smart baby monitoring system designed for contactless, continuous monitoring of infant vital signs, including heart rate, respiration rate, and body temperature. Utilizing radar-based and infrared sensors, the system eliminates the need for physical contact, ensuring comfort and reducing skin irritation. An AI-driven data analysis module processes real-time sensor data, identifying health trends and detecting anomalies with adaptive accuracy. The system includes a real-time alert mechanism, sending notifications via a secure mobile application, allowing caregivers to monitor their infant remotely. A high-resolution display provides local visual feedback, while an ambient night light offers soft illumination, adjustable based on the infant's sleep state and alert conditions. The device features an energy-efficient power management system, including a backup battery for uninterrupted operation. This invention enhances infant safety and well-being by providing a reliable, non-intrusive, and secure method for vital sign monitoring.
